Jeroen Fikkers

lJeroen Fikkers bio

Jeroen Fikkers is a self-taught artist whose practice explores the complex relationship between humans and nature. Guided by a search for unity, freedom, and narrative, he creates works that invite relection and connection.

Originally trained as an engineer in Delft, he chose not to be con"ned by science and technology, a path that ultimately led him to art. While embracing this transition, Jeroen has also mastered the traditional craft of bronze casting, producing his own sculptures with technical precision and expressive depth.

His works evoke personal stories that open onto other worlds — spaces where humanity and nature coexist, and where surrender to the present allows for growth and transformation. Through his sculptures, Jeroen challenges viewers to shift their perspective. The direction of that journey remains open, encouraging each individual to find their own resonance within his work.
